Election Returns

The returns indicate that more than 500 people stayed at home on election day. Mr. McKinney, our popular sheriff leads in the county ticket. Dr. Twyman leads the ticket in Southside district, E. M. Drinkard leads the ticket in Clover Hill district and S. E. Anderson leads in Stonewall district—these three gentlemen will enter a fouf year tergn in January as Supervisors of this county.

In another column the vote by precincts is given for State and county officers. All of the nominees of the primary are elected by big large majorities even where there was opposition—showing clearly that those who took part in the primary redeemed their pledges on election day, although many declare they will never enter another primary.

Farmers Borrow Money

The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank recently organized under an amendment to the Farm Loan Act and controlled by the same Board as the Federal Land Banks, the Bank of Baltimore, has loans to the an ount of $2,000,000 to the Tobacco Growers' Associations of Virginia and North Carolina. This Act provides making loans to Agricultural Cooperative Associations on farm products which they have in storage in certified warehouses. These loans are made for a period of from six to nine months. The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Baltimore was organized May 1st, 1923.

Elinor Glyn's "Six Days" Mailed to You Upon Request

One of the most thrilling romances ever written has just started in the daily New York American. That it is written by Elinor Glyn, author of "Three Weeks" gives it the stamp of popularity at the outset. "Six Days" is the title of the new story. It deals with a romance on the battlefields of France after the war in which two lovers are buried alive in a dugout for six days. The opening chapters of this remarkable Elinor Glyn story have been put into tabloid form and may be had free by sending a self-addressed, two-cent stamped envelope to the Tabloid Story Editor, New York American, 238 William St., New York City. Write the words "Fiction Depot" in lower left hand corner of the envelope.

Farmers Prosper As Never Before

The farmers who have worked together to bring back prosperity to their states by orderly marketing are not unmindful of the cause for its return. Many thousands have joined the marketing associations within the past twelve months, the total signers of the tobacco association contract now running beyond 93,000 according to the latest count.

Rumors that the final payment to tobacco growers of the cooperative association in the old belt would bring their total receipts to about twenty dollars a hundred were set at rest this week when it was announced from the association offices in Richmond that the total cash payments will average closer to $25 than $20 per hundred pounds and that another substantial payment will be made to members, both in the old belt and in Eastern North Carolina, on the crop of 1922 when the redried tobacco which is now selling well is finally disposed of. These figures can not be taken as final, as they are dependent upon the final sales of the association's redried tobacco nor do they apply to every individual member of the association, because of wide variations in the quality of tobacco delivered.

Deliveries to association houses reached seven million pounds last week.

On the 20th next Tuesday, our warehouses will be busy and our farmers will make the town full of lively every day until Christmas. As soon as we can get the prices the management of the Co-ops has placed upon the different grades of tobacco we will print it. Enquiries are frequently made as to the third payment on last year's crop, but no response is made. It is said a small lot of last year's tobacco is to be sold before payment can be made. It is certain that the cash advances this year will be larger than last year.

Our streets should certainly be lighted, so that the stranger could avoid our pitfalls.

At a session of the Commission appointed by the West Hanover Presbytery to investigate the charges of Rev. W. W. Pippin, Jr., that he had received unfair treatment at the Presbytery at its last session at Amherst, which Commission was in session here Tuesday. Mr. Pippin did not appear, but it is said he wrote a letter explaining his absence. Mr. Pippin was in town and why he did not attend and prosecute his charges is not known to the public. The Commission was composed of Rev. Hendrick, of Richmond, both elected to the House of Delegates.

Forward Elected By Big Majority.

Alexander Forward, of Richmond the Democratic nominee, was elected to succeed himself as a member of the State Corporation Commission over his independent opponent, J. Lloyd Byars, of Arlington, by a majority of 75,700.

The majorities returned for Mr. Forward are amazing. He polled more than ten to one of the votes in Richmond and in Portsmouth, seven to one in Norfolk and as high as twenty to one in several of the counties and in other cities.

South's C. E. W. Plans.

Governor Trinkle accepted the honorary chairmanship of the All-South Christian Endeavor Convention committee which will be held in this city next July when thousands of delegates from all parts of the South representing every Protestant denomination and religious body, will assemble for a four days' session.

In addition, Mrs. E. Lee Trinkle wife of the Governor, agreed to take a prominent part in the musical features of the program which will be arranged, and G. Ernest Miley, general chairman of the committee announced that prospects are bright for linking the convention with some of the most prominent men in the State.

National Guard Yearbook.

Copies of the yearbook of the Virginia National Guard, just off the press, are being sent to various Chambers of Commerce in Virginia, where National Guard units are located. A letter accompanying the yearbook from Adjutant General W. W. Sale calls the attention of the organization to the articles relative to the importance of the National Guard as a State institution. A roster of the officers and enlisted men of the National Guard organizations in the various cities is found in this book also.

Winchester.—State Senator H. F. Byrd, who was active in opposing the $50,000,000 bond issue for road work and one of the organizers of the pay-as-you-go movement, was given a vote of confidence by the Woman's Democratic Club, which went on record as expressing to Senator Byrd their deep appreciation of the intelligent constructive statesmanship displayed by him in this most important question, and for admiration for the courageous stand which he has taken throughout the campaign."

STATE CAPITAL

Road Bonds Proposed Defeated.

Richmond.—

By a majority of 30,000 the voters of Virginia defeated the proposal to issue $50,000,000 in securities for the purpose of completing the State highway system.

Save in the Valley of Virginia, the total vote was exceedingly light, barely reaching half that of the presidential election in 1920. In the Seventh District, however, the vote exceeds that cast in any previous election.

With few exceptions, the cities registered their preference for bonds. Richmond, Norfolk, Roanoke, Portsmouth, Newport News, emphatically favored bonds, while the proposal carried by smaller margins in Lynchburg Petersburg and Suffolk. The counties however, for the most part, voted against the plan presented by bond advocates, and in those localities where sentiment had been fostered and aroused and organized, the pay-as-you-go majorities were large.

Leaders on both sides commented on the result. President Coleman, of the Virginia Good Roads Association Senator Epes and Governor Trinkle, joined in pledging their efforts for speedy construction of the roads.

All members of the General Assembly and county officers except clerks of courts, together with magisterial district officers in all counties were elected. Most of these contests had been settled in the August primary, the nominees having no opposition, but in all the Southwest counties and some of those in the Valley, the Democratic and Republican candidates for county offices engaged in heated contests.

Independent candidates were up in some localities, but met defeat in practically every instance. This was particularly true where the opposed Democratic nominees for the Senate and House, and in every such instance the independent made a poor showing.

Fewer Republican candidates than for many years were seeking seats in the Legislature, in districts in Republican strongholds or in doubtful sections, notably Rockingham, the Smyth-Washington district and elsewhere, the Democratic nominees were without opposition. As a result, a bare half-dozen members of the minority party will have seats at the Capitol next winter. Claude Hoover the incumbent Democratic member from Shenandoah, was, however, defeated by his Republican opponent, Mr. Kelly.

New and interesting members, however, will be two women, marking the first appearance of the sex in the General Assembly. They are Mrs. Sara Lee Fain, of Norfolk, and Mrs. R. A. Hendricks, of Richmond, both elected to the House of Delegates.
